Distributor's notes

About the Winery:

Located in the north east corner of Ribera del Duero at more than 3,000 feet altitude, these 80-100+ year old vines are from select parcels containing a combination clay, sand alluvial stones, gravel and chalk; parcel in Banos de Valdearados produces fruit with good structure and fruit while the parcel in Bocigas de Perales the grapes contribute minerality and complexity in the wine thanks to the meter of gravel in the soil supported by clay below; the climate is extreme with harsh winters and scorching during the summer drop at night, allowing the grapes to ripen slowly resulting in soft tannins, good acidity and bright fruit.

About the Wine:

Deep cherry red color; violet floral notes, wild dark berries and spices on the nose; on the palate nice balance of fruit, acidity, structure and minerality with a log finish.
